

Virginia High Fidelity Wraparound Trainings

The Virginia Wraparound Center of Excellence in collaboration with the University Of Maryland School Of Social Work – The Institute for Innovation and Implementation will conduct an Orientation to Wraparound: Training and Coaching Model. The targeted audiences for these trainings are: CPMT Chairs, CSA Coordinators, FAPT Members, Community Services Boards, local Department of Social Services, Private Providers, Family and Youth Partners and other key cross-system stakeholders. Click on the link to learn more about the trainings.

This 3-hour interactive training will guide participants through the Wraparound Practice Model including the principles and key elements of Wraparound and phases and activities of the process. The research-based theory of change for High Fidelity Wraparound will be examined, as well as how Wraparound, as a philosophy and care management process, fits within the system of care framework. Key staff roles needed for Wraparound implementation, as well as the Institutes' comprehensive training and coaching model will be presented and discussed in order for participants to gain a better understanding of methodology and certification requirements. This training aims to provide participants with valuable information that they can use to guide Wraparound implementation efforts in their local communities and support staff development activities.

The training schedules are listed below and online registration will be available through the University of Maryland. (A second notice will be sent out to you providing information regarding the online registration process.)
